INCITE-DEM IN A NUTSHELL

Our research began with a look backwards - with a comprehensive historical review of democratic innovations in Europe..

...and a bridge towards contemporary practices with thorough case studies of current democratic initiatives.

Additional insights were provided by leading experts on democratic innovations via our podcast series.

This gave us a strong basis for the participatory phase of our research - we held more than 20 research events in 9 countries.

These workshops and discussions asked citizens, how to build better democratic tools that would strengthen their involvement in the decision-making process.

We took the results of this research, which included over 500 participants among citizens, decision-makers and civil society representatives, and put it to the test:

We developed digital tools...

...and asked decision-makers from all tiers of governance to help us determine which of the innovations designed during this process had the best chance of becoming real legislation or having the greatest impact.

Our goal was to determine where theory can become practice.

Finally, the stage was set: equipped with all this knowledge, we created a set of policy roadmaps that would distill our research and bring it to policymakers in a concise and actionable form.

We presented our research at the European Parliament!

That's the main story. Want
